

International Professional
Development Association

Annual International Conference 2022

Reimagining our futures together:

The role of professional learning

24-26 November 2022

A hybrid in-person and virtual event
Aston University, Birmingham, UK

www.ipda.org.uk/conference2022

“ The friendliest and most supportive of any educational conference I have ever attended. ”

Keynote speakers and IPDA members from the UK and beyond present and prompt wide discussion around issues that impact professional development. The IPDA conference provides a supportive environment in which people can listen, talk and present their research and ideas, perfect for first time researchers to develop their skills and learn from experienced researchers.

View our website for full details of fees for attending in person and virtually

Strands

Disruptions and emerging transformations

Pedagogies of cooperation and solidarity

The transformative work of practitioner educators

Education across different times and spaces

Key questions

How do we develop the capabilities for our communities to adapt to and mitigate the challenges of our times

How might we promote civic discourse and freedom of expression through professional learning and education?

What role does professional learning have in tackling disadvantage, inequality, and promoting the long-term well-being of individuals and communities?

What role does professional learning have in promoting sustainability, peace, justice and strong institutions?

What can we learn from innovative approaches to engagement and learning across communities and societies?

LOOK OUT FOR

#IPDAconversations

to provoke discussion and debate ahead of the conference

Visit our website for full details of and to book your place. Become a member to get discounted rates.

Submit your paper

Deadline: 18th June 2022

International Professional
Development Association

@ipda_prof_learn
www.ipda.org.uk