

International Professional Development Association

Research on ... Teacher wellbeing and its implications for professional development

Dr Suzanne Culshaw will be the main speaker at the first of a new style of event that IPDA England are hosting. sharing her research on 'What it means to be struggling as a secondary teacher in England'

A free open research event for everyone researching or interested in teacher wellbeing and professional development

WHEN
Saturday 16 May 2020

WHERE
University of Wolverhampton

PROPOSALS

If you are researching in this field and would like to present a Paper, we would love to hear from you. This is an event where colleagues from all phases, primary, secondary and FE are welcome.

The day is designed to be a platform for current research and where ideas can be developed through discussion.

It is the perfect platform to share:
School-based research
Masters Research
Doctoral Research
Ongoing Academic Research

In submitting your proposed contribution you will need to provide a concise title (140 characters maximum) and a 400 word abstract, written to the headings:

- Context of research
- Relevance
- Research Question
- Method/ Framework
- Results
- Discussion
- Up to six key references

Please also include a speaker's bio and photo with your proposal.

Deadline for submission: Friday 20 March 2020 to Liz at england@ipda.org.uk

Proposed contributions are peer-reviewed and then considered by at least two committee members. Proposers will be notified of the outcome of their submission by Friday 3 April 2020.